

CARE Collaboration

Call for Reviewers

We are seeking CARE members to join our reviewer pool. Reviewers from various career stages—from students and trainees to professors and practitioners—are invited to participate. This pool will be used to support the review of CARE seed grant applications and trainee competitions. Reviewers will provide expert feedback on submissions and contribute diverse perspectives, helping to ensure equity, transparency, and rigour in the CARE Collaboration’s review process. To add your name to our reviewer database, please complete this survey by November 2, 2025.

Who are we looking for?

- Reviewers with expertise in caregiving and attachment with an applied focus, along with research experience with equity deserving groups

Why join?

- Contribute to the development of caregiver sensitivity and child attachment research worldwide
- Gain experience with the grant review process
- Receive a letter of recognition from CARE Collaboration for your contributions
- Support a fair and thorough review process by joining a diversified team of external reviewers

Review process

Reviewers will be asked to:

- Provide a brief description of your expertise and experience (e.g., level of education, professional role, years of experience in research)
- Declare any potential conflicts of interest with applicants
- Review 2-3 applications and use an evaluation rubric to rank proposals
- Each application will be double-reviewed by two independent reviewers
